

PERSI FUNDING STATUS AMONG THE HIGHEST NATIONWIDE

In recent years, the media has focused much of its attention on the troubles surrounding pension plans. The Pension Protection Act of 2006 was signed into law last August to address some of the problems. With all the talk about pension reform and the difficulties so many pension plans face, PERSI wants to take time to reassure its members we are on solid ground.

The Pension Protection Act of 2006

While the majority of traditional, defined benefit pension plans in both the public and private sectors are financially healthy, some plans are significantly underfunded. In the past few years, a number of large, underfunded pension plans, most notably in the airline industry, have been terminated, putting the retirement security of thousands of plan participants at risk.

The Act primarily focuses on funding issues associated with private sector plans; however, some of the provisions will affect public pensions. For example, starting in 2007, non-spouse beneficiaries will be able to roll over inherited workplace savings plan assets to a special Individual Retirement Account (IRA). The beneficiary will avoid taxes on the rollover, and will be taxed only when the assets are withdrawn.

PERSI's Status

PERSI is currently 95 percent pre-funded, which means it has already funded 95 percent of its total obligations regardless of when benefit payments are due to retirees. In the pension world, 90 percent funding or higher is considered to be relatively healthy.

The value of the PERSI fund is rapidly approaching $11 billion. Thanks to sound investment strategies employed by Chief Investment Officer Bob Maynard, PERSI has generated more than a 12 percent return on investments during the last fiscal year (ending June 30, 2006).

With this level of stability (see related story below), PERSI retirees can rest assured their retirement benefits are not in jeopardy. For more detailed information about PERSI's financial and funding status, the 2006 annual report can be reviewed on the PERSI Web site at www.persi.gov.

CONTRIBUTION RATES AND COST OF LIVING ADJUSTMENTS

Contribution Rate Increase Postponed Again

At its October meeting, PERSI's Retirement Board unanimously approved postponing future contribution rate increases by one year. The increase scheduled for July 1, 2007 is postponed until 2008, and the July 1, 2008 increase is postponed until 2009. There hasn't been a rate increase since 2004 thanks to PERSI's funding stability.

Cost of Living Adjustment Approved

Ensuring PERSI's 28,000 retirees maintain their purchasing power is a priority. To accomplish this, PERSI provides cost of living adjustments (COLAs). Idaho Code requires a mandatory 1 percent COLA if the Consumer Price Index (CPI), the inflation factor, increases more than 1 percent. The law also allows the PERSI Retirement Board to award a discretionary COLA. The Retirement Board unanimously approved a 2.8 discretionary COLA at its October meeting. The combined COLAs total 3.8 percent, the maximum post-retirement allowance allowed by law. Unless modified by the legislature, the COLA will go into effect on March 1, 2007.

2007 FINANCIAL RESOLUTION SOLUTIONS

Many of us make New Year's resolutions each year, only to see them go by the wayside before the end of January. According to a survey conducted by Bankrate.com, 31 million people resolved to improve their financial fitness last year; most failed to achieve their goals. In fact, only 9 percent of all New Year's resolutions are kept. Change is difficult and financial change seems especially challenging. To succeed, we shouldn't make resolutions that dramatically change our lifestyle. Planning, setting goals, prioritizing, and taking action are part of a resolution solution that could work for you.

Try, Try Again

If you vowed to improve your fiscal health in 2006, but didn't make the progress you hoped, it's not too late. Get back in the saddle for 2007. Rather than tackling several areas of your finances, try modifying one. You might start by preparing a monthly budget; even if you get off track one week, you can make a fresh start the following week and still make great strides.

Goal Setting

You can't reach a goal if you never set one. Your goal can be anything from paying off credit card debt to saving for your dream vacation. It helps to keep goals realistic and specific. Without a goal, you can't tell if you're on target for success.

Plan A Strategy

Unless you take the time to write down your plan, it's only a pipe dream. Ask yourself how you can improve your financial posture in the coming year. Will you eat out less? Will you start contributing to a 401(k) or increase the amount you currently contribute? Everyone can benefit from a spending journal. Here's how it works: write down everything you spend on a daily basis so you can see at a glance where your money goes. By tracking your money, you will be in a position to make decisions on whether you're spending wisely and will be able to identify those areas needing improvement.

Getting Out of Debt

If you are only making the minimum payments on your credit card debt, you — like many — are caught up in the abyss of compound interest. Consider adding an extra few dollars to your payment each month to payoff your credit card with the highest interest rate. Try finding a creditor offering lower interest, even if it's just an introductory rate. When the card with the highest rate is paid off, focus on the card with the next highest rate. You might also want to consider consolidating your debt into a single card with the lowest rate.

Build Cash Reserves

Although it may be difficult, try building up a cash reserve for emergencies. Unexpected financial situations periodically crop up for all of us. If you've saved for these times, you won't have to rely on credit cards or tap into your investments or retirement funds for things like auto repairs or appliance replacement. Think of saving like paying a bill...it must be done every month.

Stay Motivated

Although it's difficult to keep a financial resolution, it helps if you continually ask yourself why it's important to stay on track. When you reach a milestone, such as saving a certain amount of money or by paying off one of your bills, reward yourself somehow...but only within your means.

Enjoying Life

Spending money carefully, reducing debt, and saving for retirement doesn't mean giving up life's pleasures. In fact, with less debt and more savings, you may find you're enjoying life more.

PERSI ANNUAL REPORT

The 2006 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) is now available on the PERSI Web site at www.persi.idaho.gov.

BENEFICIARY FORM HAS CHANGED

- it's now easier to designate a minor beneficiary -

PERSI has updated the RS-115 Beneficiary Designation form to make it easier for you to name a minor as a beneficiary and to appoint a custodian for the funds until the minor becomes an adult. Make sure the form you fill out has a revision date of 10/2006 in the lower left corner of each page. You can download the new form from the PERSI Web site at www.persi.idaho.gov.

Minors as Beneficiaries

To designate a minor child as a primary or secondary beneficiary, you should consider transferring the money to a custodian for the child under the provisions of the Idaho Uniform Transfers to Minors Act. (The custodian is a substitute for a conservator or a guardian.) The custodian must be an individual who is an adult or a trust company, such as a financial institution with a trust department.

If you are designating one or more minors as beneficiary, you should specify how you want your death benefit transferred if you die before the beneficiary becomes an adult (legal age of majority). PERSI cannot disperse money to a minor, so if you don't nominate a custodian on the RS-115 form, the courts may have to appoint an adult to serve as custodian or conservator of the funds. The RS-115 form provides an easy and inexpensive way to transfer death benefits to a minor through the UTMA. It enables you to nominate a custodian (and a substitute custodian) for your minor beneficiary, and authorizes PERSI to pay your death benefit to the custodian. (The substitute custodian would serve if, at the time of payment, the first-named custodian is deceased or otherwise unwilling or unable to serve.)

To nominate a custodian for a minor beneficiary, you need to complete page 2 of the RS-115 form.

Age of Majority

If you use the UTMA to nominate a custodian for your minor beneficiary, you should be aware the legal age of majority under UTMA is 21, even though in Idaho the statutory age of majority is 18 years of age. Therefore, if you die before your beneficiary reaches age 21, the money will go to and remain in the custodian's care until the beneficiary does reach 21 years of age.

Other Insurance May be Affected

If you have other employer plans or insurance policies, you may want to check out how the UTMA affects those beneficiary designations. To avoid delays in benefit payments, the Office of Group Insurance for the State of Idaho recommends anyone who has named a minor as a beneficiary for life insurance also list a custodian for the minor.

One Designation Does Not Apply to All Assets

The beneficiary designation form completed for PERSI applies only to the death benefits associated with your Base Plan and Choice Plan 401(k) accounts. Because beneficiary designations do not apply across the board, you may want to review your will, annuities, trusts, life insurance policies, and other retirement accounts to make sure a beneficiary has been named and to assess the need to designate a custodian under the UTMA.

Idaho Code

For a better understanding of how Idaho applies the UTMA law, you can review Section 68-801 through 68-825 of Idaho Code, or consult with a qualified attorney.

CHOICE PLAN 401(k) STATEMENTS ONLINE

Beginning in 2007, Choice Plan 401(k) quarterly statements will be available online via the PERSI Web site (under the Account Information tab, go to Choice Plan and click on Information, then click on the My Choice Plan Account link). Use your Social Security Number and personal identification number (PIN) to log on. If you do not have access to the Web site, contact ACS (PERSI's record keeper) at 1-866-437-3774 to have a statement mailed to you. Quarterly statements will be available approximately 15 business days following the end of the quarter. Annual statements will continue to be mailed to Choice Plan participants.

1099 FORMS

Be looking for your 2006 1099 form (tax document for distributions from pensions, annuities, retirement or profit-sharing plans, IRAs, or insurance) in the mail in mid-January. It will also be available on PERSI's Web site at www.persi.idaho.gov at about that same time. If you do not receive your 1099 in the mail by the end of January, call the PERSI Answer Center at (208) 334-3365 in Boise or toll-free at 1-800-451-8228 from other parts of the state to have a copy sent to you. Have your personal information available when you call, including your Social Security Number. To save time, you can print your 1099 from the Web site. Accessing your 1099, like accessing any account or personal information on the PERSI Web site, requires a password.
